

USE our menu as a compass and feast your eyes on the chilled food display, choosing from our wide selection of prime cuts. Our chef takes care and pride in working with Gunn's, one of Kent's oldest butchers, to offer the best "Turf in the Marsh" while our seafood choice is always fresh, seasonal and certain to satisfy those who love the very best the South Coast has to offer. Game and more exotic fare is represented according to the season with rich possibilities limited only by availability in local markets.

THE BIGGLES BAR IS A DIVISION OF LYDD AIRPORT GROUP LIMITED

OPEN 7 DAYS

Take this superb spread and “Char Grill to perfection”! Our chefs will get that done to a turn every time, and present your dish in a flash! Complimented by a range of delectable sauces and served with fresh seasonal vegetables, salads or delicious crispy french-fries – the perfect accompaniment to flame grilling!

The panoramic windows offer a close up view of classic aircraft, with a chance of seeing fighter aircraft, modern military jets, the army’s latest helicopters and more! Tranquil evenings capture the spirit of a busy aerodrome at rest, whilst lunch offers a varied diet of aircraft as pilots fly in to dine at the Biggles Bar!

With wine lists and menu closely influenced by our association with Le Touquet, seasonal cheeses and our home made policy for the sweet trolley – we look forward to welcoming you at Biggles!

James Bigglesworth, appearing in 96 books and numerous other publications by Capt. W.E. Johns, was born in India in August 1899 and in 1913, moved to England where he began school at Malton Hall. After the outbreak of the First World War, Biggles joined the RFC with the rank of Second Lieutenant and after learning to fly was posted to 266 Squadron at Marinique in France where he flew Sopwith

Camels and met Alg. He also performed missions for the Special Service's, finishing the war with over 35 confirmed victories. The Biggles Bar celebrates the life of this famous character with a host of special dishes, evening entertainment and our superb aviation through the age's murals. Situated on the Dungeness Peninsula and just a short drive from J10 on the M20, Lydd Airport is clearly sign posted off the A259. Free Car parking.
